Lesson 1

Enhancing and Decorating Finished Products

This lesson will help you learn in how to enhance and decorate finished products made of bamboo, wood and metal.

What's In

Products made of bamboo, wood and metal are in demands both in the local and international market with the involving needs of today's consumers .

Example of such products in woodcrafts are bottle holder, wood lamp, utensils, furniture. In bamboo products are bamboo lights, wall decorations, bamboo woven bag and baskets, wall decorations bamboo utensils such as spoon, and fork, bamboo plant box and etc. while in metal crafts we have accessories, pen holder, wind chime, wall hooks and wall decorations.

What's New

The importance and methods of enhancing/decorating bamboo, wood and metal products are:

1. Enhancing and decorating bamboo, wood and metal products creates artistic designs that can be more marketable and profitable that provides additional income.
2. It helps boost the Philippine economy by marketing locally and internationally profitable products made up of enhanced and decorated bamboo, wood and metal.
3. It creates additional known trademarks of proudly Philippine-made products.
4. Create more job opportunities for Filipino craftsman and enthusiasts.
5. Developed localize products using raw materials coming from different provinces and regions in the Philippines.
6. It improves the quality of the products.
7. The customer are easily attracted to a well-decorated product.
8. It can entice customers to buy the product even with its face value.
9. It can increase sale.
10. It can bring more profit.

Methods of enhancing/decorating products include the following:

- a. Sketching- freehand drawing on the surface of the product. By using your creativity and imagination in the application of different colors you can creates a beautiful and attractive design on a product.
- b. Shading- creating shades of lights and dark patterns in a composition or design, thus creating illusions of space and distance. Shading can be done through the proper use of colors of different hues , values, and intensity.
- c. Outlining- a drawing in which only the contours of a product are seen, thus emphasizing the shape of the design.

- d. Carving- Forming design by cutting. Carving wood is one of wood is one of the process involved in woodworking. The tool commonly used in carving is the chisel. Use mallet in driving the chisel. This will prevent damage to the chisel's handle.
- e. Smoothing- The process of removing lint and rough edges on wood. This gives the surface of the wood a very fine texture. Tools used for smoothing are sandpaper and hand plane. Sand paper comes from varying texture from rough to fine. These are usually numbers 60 to 150 are rough and number 250 to 1,000 are smooth. If the surface you will smoothen is rough, it is advisable to start using number 60 sandpaper. If the surface you will smoothen is somewhat smooth, you can use number 250 to further smoothen the surface.

Success in marketing a product depends not only on its durability and functionality but also on its aesthetic appearance. It is important therefore to maintain the good quality of the product, not only the quality of workmanship but also the enhanced appearance of the product through the decorations applied on its surface
